

UCLA Summer Institute on Longitudinal Research

August 9 -11, 2010 • Los Angeles

The UCLA Center for Advancing Longitudinal Drug Abuse Research (CALDAR) is pleased to announce its third Summer Institute on Longitudinal Research.

Focusing on the theme of recovery from drug dependence, the general conference (August 9) will present current findings and future directions of longitudinal drug abuse research and implications for policy and practice. Separate tracks of training (August 10th - 11th) include coursework and workshops on (a) statistical and methodological topics and (b) evidence-based interventions addressing drug abuse. Targeted audiences are researchers, clinicians, and policymakers.

Invited speakers:

- Thomas McLellan White House Office of National Drug Control Policy
- Betty Tai National Institute on Drug Abuse
- Wilson Compton National Institute on Drug Abuse
- Jack Stein Substance Abuse & Mental Health Services Administration
- Michael Cunningham California Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs
- Deni Carise Phoenix House
- Donald Hedeker University of Illinois at Chicago
- John (Jack) McArdle University of Southern California
- Rudolf Moos Stanford University
- Constance Weisner UC San Francisco

UCLA faculty: Mary-Lynn Brecht, Thomas Freese, Christine Grella, Yih-Ing Hser, Walter Ling, Debra Murphy, Michael Prendergast, Richard Rawson, Robert Weiss

More information will be forthcoming including announcement of additional speakers and details on how to apply for a travel award, the CALDAR junior investigator award, and continuing education units. Information about prior CALDAR Summer Institutes is available at <http://www.caldar.org>. I look forward to seeing you in 2010!

Yih-Ing Hser, Ph.D.
CALDAR Director, Summer Institute Chair

